

Military Child some people think its fun and amazing Which sometimes it is until you have to move after being There for 2 months there are some downfalls to being a military child you always have to move and never stay in the same place for to long

You never get to keep your friends for to long because you will just have to move again to another place where it's the same cycle over and over again you will alway be known as the new kid at your school because of how much you move around

You never really know what place to call home because your only home you had to leave it in a couple months You never wanna make friends because you know your just going to have to leave them sooner or later

There are upsides to being a military child you get to travel to new places at a young age which most adults can't do till they are like 30
When being a military child you sacrifice leaving your friends and temporary home just for another temporary home but That doesn't matter when you know that your parents are doing something to make the world better and are sacrificing their lives just so their kids can be safe.
